Teaching Resources

Virginia Rules, <https://virginiarules.org/>, offered by the Virginia Office of the Attorney General, is designed to educate young Virginians about Virginia laws and help them develop skills needed to make sound decisions, to avoid breaking laws, and to become active citizens of their schools and communities. Some Virginia schools have used the curriculum in their criminal justice career programs. Virginia Rules features 22 SOL-correlated lessons designed for middle and high school students. Instructors can download lessons with student worksheets, student topical handouts, and supplemental materials such as videos and exercises. The site features a wealth of supporting information from a glossary to supporting Code of Virginia links, and includes an instructor portal with additional features for teachers.
